5. Close the cabinet door. Once the knock-outs are removed, lock the door using the pin-in-hex wrench, to minimize possible product damage and personal injury.

3.6 Mounting the Boxer-30 Plus

The Boxer-30 Plus is typically mounted outdoors, above ground, on an H-frame, a wall, a concrete pad, or a platform. The configuration with an optional second battery box is typically mounted on a concrete pad. Figure 9 shows the clearance needed on each side of the mounted cabinet. Optional mounting kits are available to support pole (8" to 20" diameter), wall, and H-frame mounting. All mounting hardware (not provided) must be capable of supporting the weight of the Boxer-30 Plus and the weight of any equipment and batteries mounted in it. For convenience, lift rings are provided for temporary lifting purposes (do not use lift rings to support the cabinet in permanent installations). Run all cables to the mounting location, perform any trenching, trench cable placements, and backfilling prior to the cabinet mounting, and clear the installation area of any debris, vegetation, and unneeded equipment or obstacles.

- KNOCK-OUT REMOVAL NOTE -

Always remove knock-outs where holes are desired before mounting Boxer-30 Plus, regardless of the knock-out type and regardless of the order of the mounting steps. All knock-outs should be knocked out from the inside of the cabinet, except for the small 0.575" knock-outs (which are to be knocked out from the outside of the cabinet).

- WEIGHT NOTE -

The Boxer-30 Plus and battery box weigh 225 pounds. The weight of the internal equipment installed in the Boxer-30 Plus equipment chamber should not exceed 130 pounds. The mounting surface, structure, and hardware must be able to support the combined weight.

3.6.1 Mounting on a Concrete Pad

The Boxer-30 Plus cabinet can be mounted on a precast polymer concrete pad with or without the optional second battery box. This section provides installation information for mounting the Boxer-30 Plus with conjoined battery box. Refer to section 3.6.1.1 below if installing a second battery box. These instructions are guidelines; you must prepare the side and install the precast pad per local building codes and practices and the instructions provided by the pad manufacturer.

1. Select the Precast Pad Site. Select a mounting location that is dry, grade level or higher, and will support an approximately 5-foot by 4.5-foot concrete pad (minimum).

   - If placing the concrete pad next to an adjacent structure, Westell suggests 24" clearance (see Figure 9) between the cable access door panel, rear panel, load center, and any structure to allow for easy cable access, rear access, or access to the load center. Verify the cabinet doors can be fully opened.
   - Verify all required cabinet wall, ceiling, and floor cable access knock-outs have been removed prior to mounting.

2. Prepare the Pad Site. Follow company practices and instructions provided by the precast pad manufacturer throughout every step of the pad site preparation and installation. Install all cable conduit and duct work to be routed through the concrete which will enter the cable management compartment from the bottom. Level and compact the pad site with gravel. The top surface of the pad must not be below grade level.

3. Install the Pad. Lower the pad into place. Make sure to center the opening(s) in the pad over conduits and/or ducts that are to enter the bottom of the cabinet. Backfill the area around the pad and compact soil per applicable local codes or project requirements.

4. Prepare for cabinet installation. If the insulating gasket provided with the cabinet is to be used, place it on top of the pad, verifying that it does not cover either opening. Thread steel guide rods into three of the holds in the pad corresponding to the bolt holes in the bottom of the cabinet.

5. Install the cabinet. Use power lift equipment and four straps of equal length connected to the four lift rings on top of the cabinet to carefully lift, reposition, and lower the cabinet into place atop the pad. Use the steel guide rods to
